

MAINS MASTER PROGRAM (MMP) 2024
MODERN INDIA - 2

- 16. Localised uprisings were a natural outcome of British Imperialism. Examine.
- 17. Shed light on the evolving nature of peasant movements during colonial rule.
- 18. The Great Revolt of 1857 was an inevitable consequence of colonial rule. Discuss.
- 19. The Great Revolt of 1857 was a major watershed in Indian history. Discuss this statement in light of its impact on colonial policy.
- 20. “Indian nationalism was a middle class movement par-excellence”. Critically Examine.
- 21. The emergence of nationalism in India was both a reaction to and a product of British Rule. Examine.
- 22. The tenure of Lord Lytton as Governor-General is considered to be the seed time of Indian nationalism. Discuss.
- 23. Examine the features of the liberal phase of the Indian national movement. Was this phase really a wasted period?
- 24. Does the Safety Valve Theory satisfactorily explain the emergence of the Indian National Congress.
- 25. The beginning of the 20th century witnessed the dawn of new leaders, objectives, methods and energy in the Indian National Movement. Comment.
- 26. Where divide and rule failed, the carrot and stick policy succeeded. In light of this statement, analyse the developments leading up to the Surat Split.
- 27. Examine the features of the early revolutionary movement in India. Discuss the factors behind its emergence and decline.
- 28. The Morley-Minto reforms were never intended to be a permanent solution to Indian problems. Discuss.

- 29. The Home Rule Movement represented the revival of the congress as well as nationalist politics. In this context discuss its objectives and impact.
- 30. The Montford reforms were designed not to usher in responsible government but to perpetuate constitutional autocracy. Comment.